

SCHOLARS
STRATEGY NETWORK

Election Experts Available: Gender and Politics

NOVEMBER 5, 2018

For journalists looking for expert sources to comment on issues of gender in the midterm elections, these scholars are available to comment:

Ronnee Schreiber, San Diego State University

rschreib@sdsu.edu

Expert on gender and American politics, can comment on women's electoral fortunes and status, conservative women candidates and voters.

Kira Sanbonmatsu, Rutgers University

sanbon@rci.rutgers.edu

Expert on 2018 women candidates.

Erin Cassese, West Virginia University

ecassese@udel.edu

@ErinCassese

Expert on voters' psychology, with an emphasis on gender, identity, and sexism.

Jennie Sweet-Cushman, Chatham University

jsweetcushman@chatham.edu

@jenniesweetcush

Experts on women candidates in Pennsylvania.

Anna Mitchell Mahoney, Tulane University

amahone4@tulane.edu

@Annamahoney

Expert on state women's caucuses, can comment on the consequences once women in office at the state level

Mary-Kate Lizotte, Augusta University

mlizotte@augusta.edu

Expert on gender gap in voting, gender gap in public opinion, voter evaluations of women candidates. Can comment on Georgia gubernatorial race.

Beth Reingold, Emory University

beth.reingold@emory.edu

Expert on women in office. Can comment on Georgia gubernatorial race.

Joanne Connor Green, Texas Christian University

j.green@tcu.edu

Expert on gender in elections. Can comment on Texas races.