The Fight over High-Tech Supremacy Isn't New. We Just Haven't Learned Our Lesson

John J. Krige, Georgia Institute of Technology

Mario Daniels, University of Amsterdam

The U.S. is intensifying its competition with China for high-tech supremacy. Just two weeks ago, the Department of Justice released a major indictment against Chinese telecommunications company Huawei for allegedly violating U.S. sanctions against Iran. But that's just one piece of a much larger puzzle.
