2 Experts Available for Timely Analysis on 2024 Election in Wisconsin

OCTOBER 16, 2024

Dominik Doemer

With the 2024 election less than three weeks away, all eyes are on the swing states that are likely to decide the presidency, including Wisconsin.

For reporters covering voting, state politics, and some of the top issues of this election in Wisconsin, the following experts are available to provide commentary and analysis:

BARRY C. BURDEN

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Key topics: election administration, voting

Burden's research and teaching focus on U.S. elections, public opinion, representation, and the U.S. Congress. His recent research has centered on aspects of election administration and voter participation. He is the author of Personal Roots of Representation, co-editor of The Measure of American Elections, co-author of Why Americans Split Their Tickets, and editor of Uncertainty in American Politics.

MICHAEL W. WAGNER

University of Wisconsin-Madison

Key topics: news and social media, misinformation, voting

Wagner studies how individuals' use of the overall information ecology affect what they believe, what their preferences are, and how they participate politically. He is co-author of the book Political Behavior of the American Electorate, one of the most-assigned election books in American universities.
